

PRE-QUIZ FOR CHAPTER 2

2-1. Data that originate from inside personality are called:

- a. surrounding data
- b. personality-emanated data
- c. personal report data
- d. other report data

2-2. Freud's contribution to observationism required:

- A. cutting patients off just after recall and before catharsis.
- B. demonstrating through research its superiority to the experimental method.
- C. repeated observation of multiple patients' free associations in a controlled environment.
- D. all of the above.

2-3. Psychometric scales generally:

- a. consist of a large number of questionnaire items.
- b. consist of a few behavioral observations.
- c. may provide valid measurement without reliability.
- d. measure only one factor.

2-4. The correlation of $r = -0.70$ would be a:

- A. a good predictive validity.
- B. a good test-retest reliability.
- C. a poor indicator of construct validity.
- D. good content validity and good reliability

2-5. Factor analysis most directly tells you about:

- a. the predictive validity of a test
- b. how many things a test measures
- c. the construct validity of a test
- d. the external factors influencing a person's test taking.