

PRE-QUIZ FOR CHAPTER 6

6-1. People and society appear to:

- a. be interested in, and value, mental abilities
- b. be uninterested in mental abilities
- c. dismiss mental abilities
- d. find the topic useless

6-2. Below-average intellectual functioning tends to be:

- a. concrete
- b. abstract
- c. imagistic
- d. associationistic

6-3. A rate IQ is based on:

- A. a person's mental age divided by their chronological age.
- B. the rank order of a person's score on an intelligence test among all people under 17 years of age.
- C. the standard deviation of average intelligence across different age groups.
- D. a person's score on an intelligence test in relation to the scores of other people the same age.

6-4. Hot mental abilities/intelligences reason with information that is of particular personal relevance. An example is:

- a. verbal intelligence
- b. perceptual-organizational intelligence
- c. spatial intelligence
- d. social intelligence

6-5. The remote associates test, in which people find a word in common with such terms as blue, burger, and cake (answer: cheese), is a measure of:

- a. intelligence
- b. motivation
- c. creativity
- d. consciousness